Officials meet with Corps to discuss filler material

by JERRY WHITTLE

A special meeting Thursday morning between officials from Hancock County and a representative of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers cleared the air of any differences of opinion on the work to be done by the Corps in filling the "death" hole near Gulfside Assembly.

The meeting, called by Hancock County Civil Defense Director Bob Boudin, was held at the Port and Harbor office in Waveland. Meeting to discuss the project and the problems were Boudin, P&H President Wilson Weber, Dolph Keller, President of the Hancock County Supervisors, Waveland Mayor John Longo and Corps representative Paul Warren from Mobile.

Boudin expressed his concern over the type material (silt) to be pumped from dredging operations at Bayou Caddy to the hole some two and a half miles away. Corps officials have also said they did not feel the material was the best type material needed to solve the problem. However, as Warren explained at the Thursday meeting, "it's the best I can offer."

Warren told the gathering, "Maybe there's a better solution, but with my project, this is the best I can offer." He said the Bayou Caddy project was set up as a maintenance dredging operation and there are no provisions in the project that would allow the contractor to dredge sand, which they feel would be best to fill the hole, from another location and pump it into the hole. Sand from around the hole was what Boudin had suggested as a solution needed to correct the problem.

It was also noted that the Corps plans to use some of the materials taken from Bayou Caddy for a recreational beach at Buccaneer State Park. However, Warren said, "On a maintenance contract like this we do not require soil borings and for this reason we had to advise the state that normally that kind of material is not suited for a recreational beach or for filling a deep hole."

The comments by Warren came after Boudin explained his position on the matter. The CD Director said he was shown a letter last December addressed to the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce from the Corps stating that the hole would be filled, but that they did not know when the work would be done. Boudin said he was at a CD meeting in Biloxi and met with Col. Pope of the Corps and asked when the hole would be filled. He said he was told later by the Corps official that the hole would be filled within eight weeks, but that time period has since passed. Boudin said 22 drownings have occurred at the same location and Hancock County and the town of Waveland have received a large amount of unfavorable publicity because of the incidents.

Boudin's criticism was mainly on the time lapse by the Corps, but Weber defended the Corps, saying he felt the Corps was doing what they had been asked to do and "on time". Weber praised the Corps work and said he knew planning and work on the entire project, which included dredging work at the mouth of the East Pearl, Wolf and Jourdan Rivers, had been in the mill for some four years. Further explaining that, "I feel it is very gracious of the Corps to undertake this additional project. They could very easily dismiss filling the hole and the park project, but they have consented to do this for us."

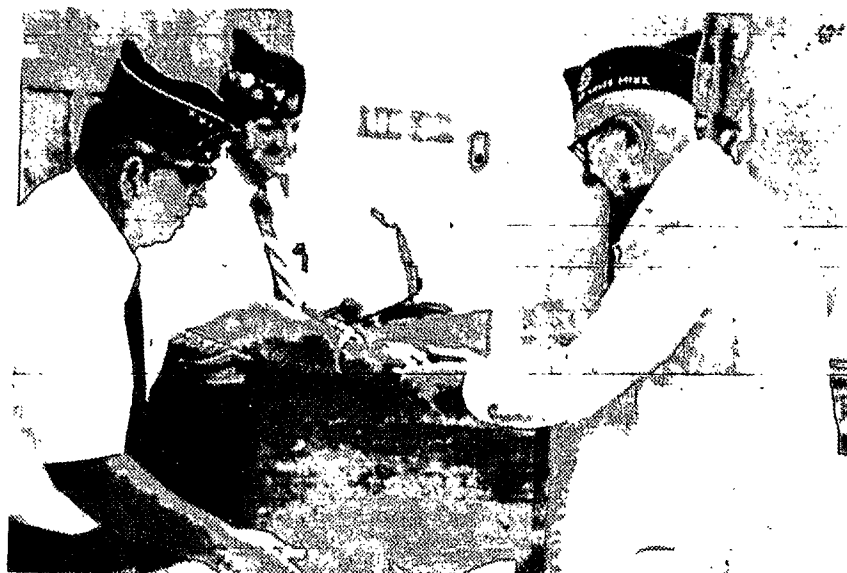

Boudin asked Warren if local officials might be able to talk with the contractor and ask if he would pump in sand from around the hole, that it might save him time and money. Warren said that Boudin was talking about a different project, that the Bayou Caddy Project is only for a maintenance dredging of the channel and the Corps has to offer the contractor a dumping site for the spoils materials.

Warren added, "My main reason for being here today is find just where you would like the material put to fill the hole. I have a can of spray paint and I want to go to the location and mark the seaway so we will have the correct spot."

Keller also joined Weber in praising the efforts of the Corps. At the conclusion of the session, Keller said he felt he could speak for the board of

by ELLIS CUEVAS

In this day and age not many people even reach the age of 60 years. Of course there are exceptions to everything as this story proves.

Henry Capdepon, Sr., Hancock Street, Bay St. Louis was in attendance at the first Caucus in Paris, France for the formation of the American Legion. A native of Hancock County, Capdepon enlisted in the Marines on April 19, 1917, 12 days after World War One was declared.

At a supper honoring members of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139, Thursday night, with members of 25 years or more, Capdepon was honored as being an American Legion member with continuous service for 60 years.

He also received earlier this year, from the State of Mississippi American Legion Commander, a Gold Certificate for 60 years of service. The Bay St. Louis native is the only Mississippian with 60 years of Legion Service.

In an interview Friday, Capdepon gave some of the details of his being involved in the formation of the American Legion. At the end of the war, he was a Corporal in the Marines serving as a Courier with a detachment at Chalo Surmarne, France. He was sent to Paris for reassignment.

Upon his arrival in Paris, he heard there was a group going to meet to try and form an organization similar to the French Foreign Legion, uniting all American Troops. He attended the first Caucus, but was unable to attend all of them because he was reassigned.

Capdepon arrived in Paris on Christmas Eve, 1918, the next day he

Tornado strikes in Washington St. area

by JERRY WHITTLE

The fourth reported tornado of the year struck the Washington Street area of Bay St. Louis early Thursday morning causing minor damage. No injuries were recorded.

The damage area was mainly in the 100 block of Washington with downed trees reported at 120 and 127 addresses. Telephone company officials also reported damage to their cable along Washington and replacement will be required.

Residents in the storm area told of hearing the familiar sound of a tornado, "like a freight train", as the twister struck at approximately 1 a.m.

A large tree was fell at the Leah Lang residence, 120 Washington, and another at the Brenda Hoda home, 127 Washington. The latter also damaged a chain link fence at the rear of the house. The large tree at the Lang home fell into the street, but was removed by workmen and the roadway remained open Thursday morning. The evidence of the storm remained at midday with tree limbs and wires scattered along

Save the Bay defeated in court on two motions

Save the Bay lost another legal battle Wednesday when U.S. District Judge Walter L. Nixon, Jr. refused a request from the environmentalist group to halt construction of Du Pont's $150 million titanium dioxide plant at Delisle and a second request to discontinue hearings on the plant's pollution permit.

The rulings came after some four hours of hearings in Judge Nixon's chambers in Biloxi. According to reports, he ruled that the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission (MAWPPC) permit board has no authority to stop construction.

Save the Bay attorney Robert Homes was quoted as saying the judge is "not going to make any arrangements to stop construction now" and that "the hearings are going forward in Jackson" Aug. 22nd. The group has opposed re-hearings, ordered by the State Supreme Court last December, on the plant's waste water discharge permit, saying the hearings should be held before the entire 11 member MAWPPC rather than its permit board. The hearings began in Jackson in June, were continued at Gulfport last month and will be completed next week in Jackson.

Attending the Wednesday hearings were attorneys for Du Pont, Save the Bay, Attorney General A.F. Summer's office, the Environmental Protection Agency and the MAWPPC.

The original suit filed in the U.S. District Court at Biloxi charged that the MAWPPC was not providing rights guaranteed to objectors in federal pollution permit hearings. The EPA relegated its authority for issuing permits to the state agency and both agencies are seeking dismissal of the suit.

Two additional motions were taken under advisement by Judge Nixon. One by Save the Bay challenges the authority of MAWPPC's permit board to issue pollution control permits; Du Pont's motion calls for the entire federal court proceedings to be dismissed.

Pine Hills Hotel is up for sale again

It was learned late last week that the old Pine Hills Hotel at the north end of the Bay of St. Louis is once again up for sale by its owners, the Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate.

According to reports, an unidentified corporation had a one-year option to purchase the building and its 600 surrounding acres at a reported cost of $1 million. The option expired on July 31st.

It was reported the corporation had planned to operate the scenic hotel and grounds as a luxury resort complex if the option was exercised.

Pine Hills, built in 1926, first opened in December of that year as an elaborate resort hotel. The grounds covers 62 acres with 1,500 feet of shoreline and the building has 173 rooms, including 116 rooms with baths and showers, dining rooms, kitchen, convention halls, recreation rooms, lobby, elevators, tennis and hand ball courts, a small boat marina, artesian wells and a fishing pier.

The hotel, which can be seen from Hwy. 90 and the Bay Bridge, is located less than a mile from Interstate 10. When U.S. 90 was rerouted across the Bay Bridge to the south, the hotel lost business and it later closed. It was opened again in 1953 and was used as a training center for the Oblate Fathers. However, in 1968 the hotel was abandoned again and its furnishings auctioned off. Hurricane Camille dealt a further blow in 1969, but owners say the structure is still solid and the foundation was not damaged.

Owners still believe the hotel has selling power because of its location near I10 and the "old mystique"

SCB AT STORM SCENE-John Carr (C) and South Central Bell repairmen were on the scene of a Thursday morning tornado that struck the Washington Street area. Carr said some 1,500 to 2,000 feet of telephone cable was damaged in the storm and would require replacement.

MAE asking for new cabinet post

The local chapter of the Mississippi Association of Education (MAE), the Bay St. Louis Education Association of Education, has actively requested the members of its group and interested citizens to become involved in the addition of a new cabinet post in Washington, D.C.

President Jimmy Carter had indicated to the educators of America that he would create a separate Department of Education. As September draws near, he has taken no action on this matter. The MAE membership feels that this would add education in that a tremendous amount of red tape could be cut where education is concerned and give education a separate voice.

Local President Rogers James, asks that "Anyone interested in helping these organizations in this endeavor to contact their Congressman and write to the President requesting their support."

Further information may be obtained from the local organization or the MAE office in Jackson.

Many people like to use spray paints to brighten metals, too. Your youngsters' swing, your garden tools or lawn furniture might all look better with a new coat of paint.

Bay native...

attended church in the famous Notre Dame Catholic Church. He claims to have attended church services in 42 different churches in the USA and Europe.

A short while after arriving in Paris, Capdepon developed flu from sleeping on the floor of a barn one night.

When asked about his job in the Marines, Capdepon said communications were not the same during World War One as they are today. Messages had to be delivered by hand from one outfit to another and from town to town. To deliver these messages a courier, walked, rode a mule or horse, wagon, box car on a train, a boat, truck, or from travel available to get from one point to another. Capdepon said he at one time spent as long as three weeks in a box car in delivering a message.

Food was a big problem, the only rations the troop had were hard tack, crackers and beef cubes used to make soup and since there wasn't time to make soup, the trooper would suck the beef cubes. A meal could also be picked up along the way by stopping at a military installation and he even ate at some French installations.

The trains were very small and slow traveling and the tracks were the narrow gauge type. At the end of the war the Americans were building a railroad and the American engines and box cars were giants in size compared to the French trains.

Travelers were in three groups on the trains, first, second and third class. The coaches were mostly box cars with hay on the floor and toilet facilities were not available.

Capdepon would like to remind folks that even though it was hard on the American troops, they were clothed and fed far better than the French troops.

When asked about the French girls, Capdepon said that he couldn't say much about them, but that they were beautiful and plentiful. Troops were warned about fraternizing with them because of communicable diseases. So many of the French men were killed in the war there were not enough men to go around for the women.

During the war Capdepon received unit citations including the Maltese Cross. He served for two years and two months before his return to Hancock County. There were four Marines from Hancock County in World War One and Capdepon said he is the only survivor.

Upon his discharge from the Marines, Capdepon served in the National Guard

as a Lieutenant for about eight years.

Capdepon, 79, is married to Waveland native Elizabeth Jones and they have four children. A son, Henry Jr., is a retired Marine Captain residing in Gulfport. There were three daughters, Mrs. Elsie Mae Higgins of Gulfport, Mrs. Gladys Bassett of Pascagoula and Mrs. Gloria Bolin of Cupertino, Calif. The Capdepons have 12 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

As a member of the American Legion, Capdepon was Commander six different times, he has also held most of the positions in the American Legion. He is a graduate of Rip University (St. Stanislaus Back School) and a 1915 graduate of St. Stanislaus. In 1944 he retired as assistant Postmaster in Bay St. Louis. After retirement he worked several years for a construction company at the Navy base and then worked for a time at the American Legion home.

Capdepon and his wife have really enjoyed life since his retirement from the post office. They now enjoy themselves by watching television, visiting friends, and attending Legion functions. Mrs. Capdepon is a member of the American Legion's Women's Auxiliary. Time has been good to them and they both have enjoyed life.

Cooperative education at USM

By JERRY PARSON

"What's your class schedule this quarter Fred?" "Oh, the regular--English Lit., Business Law, Math 202 and Sociology."

"What's yours, Jack?" Fred shot back.

"No courses this quarter," Jack replied smugly. "I've got to go to Sacramento to get my Navy scuba qualification and then I'm coming back to do a near shore ecological study. I'll see you then."

Sound too good to be true. Well it isn't--at least if you're a participant in the University of Southern Mississippi's Cooperative Education Program.

Jack is a real person. Jack McDermid, a junior at USM majoring in biology with emphasis on marine sciences, was selected as a cooperative education student to work with the Naval Oceanographic Test at the NASA installation in south Mississippi.

Jack's is not one of a kind situation. The Gulf Coast is one of many areas utilizing students performing in valuable and interesting jobs while completing course work towards a college degree.

Ivy Spencer of Hattiesburg is a physics major working for the National Space Technology Laboratories in Bay St. Louis in its acoustics division.

What does Ivy do? She was busy scaling down contour maps concerned with environmental effects during a recent interview. In between time, she works with computers and key punches.

"This program is great for me," Ivy says. "It gives me a chance to experience different aspects of many sciences. Right now I want to be an astronomer, but by the time I am finished here, I may want to be an acoustical engineer."

Two of USM's coop students working at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi are Karen Paul and Wanda McDonald.

Karen was trained to be an instructor and now teaches Introduction to Key Punch and Basic Concepts of Fortran.

Wanda, a student from USM's regional campus at Gulf Park, teaches computer maintenance. She previously taught computer maintenance while in the Air Force. One thing that surprises me," says Wanda, "is that usually I am the only woman working with computers. I don't understand why more women don't get involved in computer maintenance. They can do the work just as easily as men, and sometimes easier, like working with micro circuits. My hands are smaller, so I don't have as much to get in the way."

Students returning to USM who are interested in jobs through the cooperative education program have a number of interesting positions available for fall quarter.

Billie Parrot, coordinator of the program, says students who were in school for spring or summer quarter at USM are eligible for the work program during fall quarter. Two tuition paid positions are available. One, open to all majors, is with Northwestern Mutual as a sales trainee in Jackson and Hattiesburg. The other is a trainee position with NORDA in Bay St. Louis and is open to physics majors.

Education or science majors can apply as instructor trainees for Keesler AFB in Biloxi. This is a new opening for education majors.

English or journalism majors are being sought to work in publications and graphic arts with the Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg.

Computer science majors have the opportunity to work as a programmer with the U.S. Geological Survey in Bay St. Louis as a computer instructor in maintenance or technology at Keesler or as a programmer for the Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg.

South Central Bell is interested in a construction technology major to work with building inspections in Jackson. McRae's in Hattiesburg has an opening for a marketing major as a trainee. Accounting or data processing majors might be interested in working with missile and gun systems at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

The Waterways Experiment Station has several positions open to biology majors. Included are a position as biologist in the environmental effects lab, a trainee position in environmental effects which also open to a physical science major and a trainee position in mobility and environmental systems which is also open to physics majors.

Math or physics majors may also be interested in checking into a trainee position in hydraulics with the Waterways system in Vicksburg.

Homes in Hancock

It was good news to see Waveland receiving HUD loans for $214,080 this week. This loan will be used to modernize low rent housing. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) built these homes after Camille.

The big thing Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County really needs is more homes. We realize that there are a few being built in Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and a big development under construction in Waveland.

Of course one will say that there are luxurious homes on the market, on the beach and at Diamondhead, which is true. These homes are not affordable by the average working person residing in Hancock County.

There are many home builders in Hancock County that can build quality homes, but most have the same problem, money for financing. They are not big enough to carry speculator homes for three or six months, the financing eats up all their profits, so they say.

If Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland are to move forward we are going to have to make places available for people to reside. The answer as to how, we really don't know. It is our opinion that homes in the $20,000 to $40,000 bracket will sell.

Of course the big need is in rental property, as new residents move in, they usually like to rent for six months or a year before they buy. We tried several months ago, of course we knew it was the middle of summer, to rent a place for a new employ and it was a chore.

No one deserves congratulations more than Bay St. Louis native Henry Capdepon, Sr., on his 60 years of continuous service with the American Legion. Just think, he was there when the Legion formed in Paris, France in 1918. We should all be proud of his service and I know that all the members of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post are proud that he is a member of their post and former commander many times. A salute to a great American!

A Thursday meeting at the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission office with the Corps of Engineers representative saying that it won't be long before sand will be pumped in the hazardous hole on Beach Blvd by Gulfside. It's news we have been waiting for a long time.

Our news department sure needs to apologize to Jan Duplantis. A story we carried last Sunday about him being in an auto accident listed him as a girl. His father called Wednesday to say that he had just returned home from the hospital and was recovering. Jan, a student at Hancock North Central plays tight end on the Hawk football team and just won an award as a star football player on the night of the accident.

Kids, don't put your fishing gear away yet. Next Saturday will be the State Kids Fishing Rodeo at Buccaneer State Park in Waveland. Get your parents or grandparents to take you fishing for the rodeo. You could catch the big one and have fun at the same time.

Today's issue has a special Back to School Section carrying school schedules for the coming year. This being the first time that we have devoted a section for Back to School is something new for many. We are grateful for the school officials that have supplied information and also for our advertisers that made this section possible. Keep it for future references.

The recent rains were a welcome relief to us all. We have heard some residents complaining about our pesky friends that the rain hatches out and that is the mosquito. We haven't seen any Mosquito Commission trucks spraying the community. The population of mosquito seems to warrant that action.

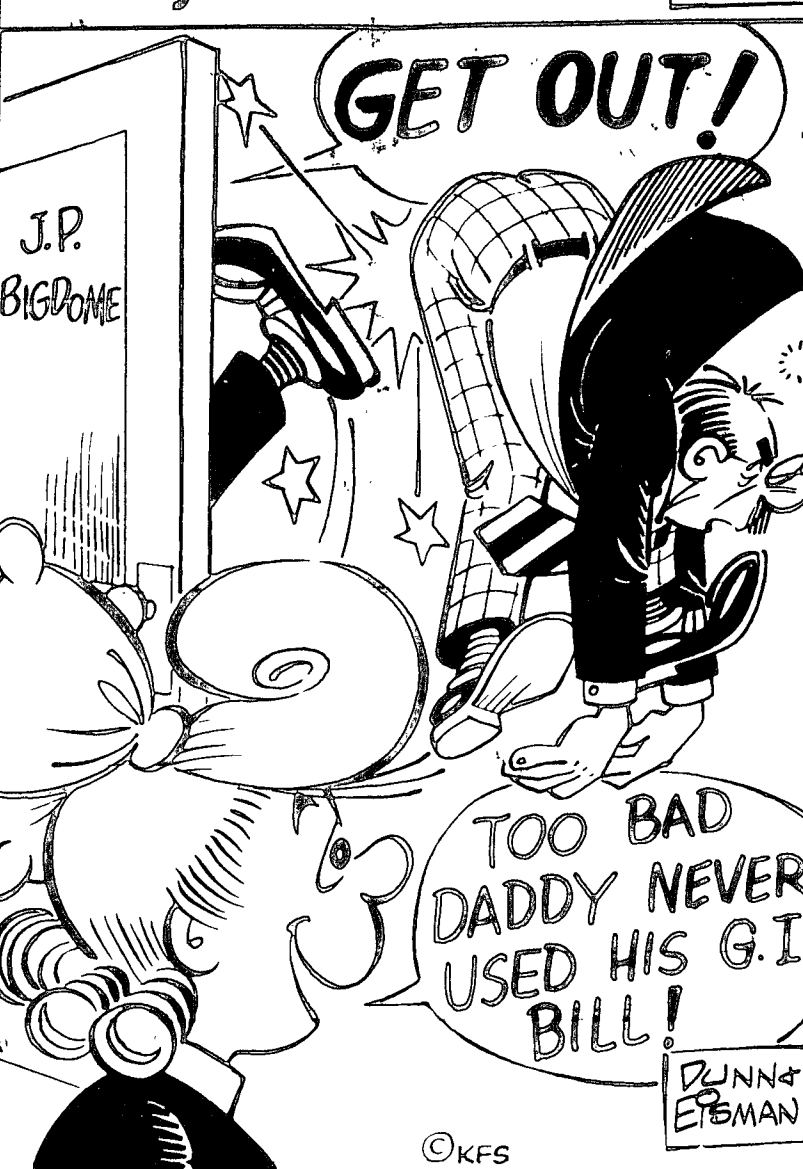

Washington report

By Trent Lott

WASHINGTON, D.C.- Congressman Trent Lott, R-Miss., has praised the positive attitude of the U.S. Navy in moves to consolidate its Naval Oceanographic Office from Suitland, Md., to Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Lott said remarks by Assistant Navy Secretary David E. Mann during recent change of command ceremonies indicate the Navy plans to nurture the oceanographic office at the National Space Technology Laboratories

VENDING MACHINE PROMOTERS

Vending machine promoters virtually abound in the South. Their ads promise profits over $1,000 a month with a minimum investment and 8 to 12 hours of your time each week. Remember, the vending machine promoter is primarily interested in selling vending machines. Because of this, his machines may be of inferior quality and sell at a grossly inflated price. You may find that you have purchased a $50 vending machine for $500. Most promoters also offer to obtain the locations for your machines. Although they promise "prime" locations, such as apartments and other high-traffic areas, most machines are placed in service stations beside machines that have been there for some time. Other machines generally offer a wider selection of nationally known merchandise, make change, and more durable than the machines you have purchased. Once you have invested with a vending machine promoter, you have two chances of getting your money back from the company or making any money on your route-slim and none.

If you wish to go into the vending machine business, contact a local vending machine company; legitimate operators will be frank with you and discuss the difficulties involved in servicing vending machines. Generally, you can buy a high-quality machine at a reasonable price locally, and will have your choice of which products you wish to vend.

The Peoples Business

"Striking fire fighters, who for three days let more than 20 fires burn despite a judge's order that they return to work."

That was the way the Associated Press reported last week's firemen's strike in Dayton, Ohio. While Dayton burned, the striking firemen watched, leaving 30 families homeless.

In one incident, an apartment building containing several families caught fire. And, even though the striking firemen helped the people out of the building, they didn't lift a finger to control the blaze, which eventually destroyed those families' possessions. The victims of the blazes were frequently left only with the clothes on their backs. Luckily, most of the fires were in deserted buildings—flames which authorities believe to be caused by arson.

Can it happen in Mississippi? Hopefully not. While our city employees should be paid fairly, there must be a clear distinction between the collective bargaining privileges of workers in the private sector and those in the public sector.

As Calvin Coolidge once said, "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, anytime."

Our elected officials—municipal, county and state—should never bargain with representatives of any union on behalf of public employees. Strikes against the government or any of its divisions, should never be permitted.

(NSTL) site in Hancock County

"I am encouraged by this positive attitude and believe Navy personnel who move to the Bay St. Louis area will recognize the value of consolidation," Lott said. The change of command ceremony marked the installing of Capt. John McDonnell as commander of the office, succeeding Capt. James E. Ayres.

Mann, assistant Navy secretary for research, engineering and systems, reaffirmed the "positive support of my office for an integrated and effective program led by the Oceanographic Office of the Navy and spearheaded by a center-of-excellence at Bay St. Louis." Mann emphasized that recent organizational changes within the research side of the center would not have an impact on buildup of the site.

He called on McDonnell to make continued progress at the Navy's new Naval Oceanographic Center. Mann also complimented Ayres, who led the office through a difficult period when opposition existed to the consolidation of the office to Bay St. Louis. Ayres will become a member of the three-man directing committee of the International Hydrographic Bureau, a U.N. organization located in Monaco.

supervisors and give the green light for doing what ever is necessary to get the hole filled as soon as possible. Mayor Longo said, "We just can't keep doing nothing, if there's no alternative at this time, then fill the hole with the material until it sticks out of the water if necessary."

The motion questioning MAWPCC's permitting authority follows dismissal last week in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals of a Save the Bay suit charging that the permit issued to the chemical company on Feb. 3, 1975 was "seriously mishandled."

The court said the ruling as to whether or not the EPA should have stepped in and revoked the state commission's authority was made

"without prejudice" which gave Save the Bay the opportunity to refile a suit on that particular issue, which the group has yet to do.

Judge-Nixon to the environmental group Thursday his court lacks jurisdiction to intervene in its fight against the permitting authority of the state pollution control commission. He dismissed the suit brought by Save the Bay against MAWPCC.

most of the street.

John Carr of South Central Bell told the ECHO his company had some seven "drop lines" down along the street, but the major damage was to the cable. The official estimated the cost of repair to some 1,500 to 2,000 feet of cable at a couple of thousand dollars. Work to repair the cable was expected to start Thursday morning.

Other tornadoes have struck earlier this year at Bay St. Louis, Borgage's Fishing Camp and in the Anseley Community. The major damage in the previous three storms was in Bay St. Louis where a church was destroyed.

Free glaucoma eye test set

The county health department in Bay St. Louis is now providing a screening program for glaucoma for those persons 65 years of age or older.

Glaucoma is the leading cause of preventable blindness. This condition, which involves increased pressure within the eyeball, will gradually destroy the nerve fibers in the eyes, causing total blindness.

Signs and symptoms suggesting Chronic Glaucoma include the following: Frequent changes of glasses, none of which is satisfactory; inability to adjust the eyes to darkened rooms, such as theatres; Loss of side vision; Blurred or foggy vision; Rainbow-colored rings around lights; Difficulty in focussing on close work.

Here are some points to remember about glaucoma:

1) Is found primarily in people over 35 years of age; 2) Exists for quite some time without symptoms; 3) Can be controlled with proper treatment; 4) Is controlled easier when detected in early stages; 5) Occurs more often in families of people with this disease.

Fortunately, there is a quick, simple, painless testing procedure for glaucoma.

Don't neglect your eyes - take advantage of this opportunity! a health department spokesman said.

The Testing Date will be Aug. 19 from 8:30 - 9:30 a.m.

Health Tip

You can't really beat the heat.

Whether it's the heat or the humidity, or both, it's hot in almost all of the United States in July. After weeks of sweating and steaming, it's not uncommon to find the heat is beginning to wear you down.

You can't do anything about the outside temperature. You can avoid it if you're fortunate enough to work and live in air-conditioned comfort, but it still will be hot outside.

The American Medical Association points out that there are some things you can do to be more comfortable—things that can help you beat the heat.

Stay out of the sun as much as possible, especially during the middle of the day when rays are hottest. Wear light, loose clothing. The ladies have the edge over the men in this respect.

Drink more liquids than usual, but take extra salt only on your physician's advice, particularly if you have liver or kidney trouble or a heart condition.

Take a shower or dip in the pool once or twice a day to cool off. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat your regular diet and don't go overboard on cold cuts and salads, unless you like them anyway.

Get up early in the morning to do your heavy work on the lawn or garden. Or work at dusk in the evening, but try to avoid heavy exertion during the hottest hours of the day. There is sound physical reason behind the siesta custom of the tropics.

You need exercise in the summer as well in the winter, but don't overdo it, especially on extra hot days. Don't overdo physical exertion, whether at work or at play.

Welch to serve

William Welch of Pass Christian was among several new members of the Mississippi Health Systems Agency (MHSA) Board of Directors who were officially seated at the annual meeting in July.

Welch, an attorney in Pass Christian and an alderman, serves as a health care consumer representative of the Southern Subarea Advisory Council. Each SAC (10 in all across the state) elects from among its members, or from other qualified persons within its district, representatives to the Board of Directors as allocated to it by the Corporation's bylaws.

Welch will serve on the board for three years.

Mrs. Charping to attend convention

Mrs. Pauline Charping of Waveland will be attending the 57th annual National Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, which will be held in Denver, Colorado, August 19-25.

Mrs. Charping is Southern Divisional Chairman of the Community Service Committee and National Executive Committeewoman of the American Legion Auxiliary, the largest women's patriotic organization in the world. Nearly 2,000 delegates and alternates representing one million Auxiliary members are expected to attend the convention.

Denver, a host city for the second time, will greet nearly 10,000 visitors during the convention. The seven day event will be held in conjunction with the American Legion's National Convention. The Legion and Auxiliary plan to break a fifty year tradition by holding a joint National Convention Banquet. It will replace the Auxiliary's "States Dinner" and the Legion's National Commander's Banquet.

Delegates will attend meetings throughout the week to plan 1977-78 programs and to elect national officers.

Richard Peet, President of Citizens for Highway Safety, will be a featured speaker. Peet served as a counsel on the House Committee on Public Works in 1969. During this period he initiated the research which resulted in the Highway Safety Act of 1973. He is in turn, led to his appointment to head Citizens for Highway Safety, a group which involves citizens at the grassroots level in highway safety activities.

Also addressing the convention, will be Dr. Joseph Kiser, cardiovascular surgeon and co-founder of "The Children's Heart Fund." The Fund provides open heart surgery for needy children all over the world. Dr. Kiser donates his time and skills in their entirety to this program and is currently serving approximately 50 children a year.

Convention entertainment will include a parade through Denver and a "Musical Spectacular" featuring winners of trio, quartet and chorus contests.

Headquarters Hotel for the Auxiliary event is the Cosmopolitan Hotel on Broadway. The Brown Palace will serve as Legion Headquarters.

Overtime

by RANDY LANKFORD

Memos to me...

1. Stay ready for annual attack of fall football fever. Keep close to a stadium since this is only known cure.
2. Think of something to keep wife occupied during the weekend so she will stay away from T.V.
3. Find binoculars that have been in storage since November.

4. Keep in shape by trying to avoid wide sweeps when on the sidelines shooting pictures.

All of these and more are part of my fall frenzy when the football season starts. I'm sure, that for some, the fall is just like any other season. But, at least for me, it's panic city. Being a sportswriter, football season should carry only the normal amount of interest. But I always fall prey to my own fanaticism. I am a football nut.

It's not easy for me to admit this horrible weakness. I just can't control myself. I have to watch football. It's been bred into me. I was born in Texas and brought up watching the Longhorns and the Cowboys.

As a professional, it is important to maintain my impartiality but at times I slip and let out a cheer. I plead temporary insanity.

I think my downfall is brought about partially by the splendor and pageantry that surrounds football. The bands, parades, halftime shows, elated and dejected players, and proud or perplexed coaches all tug at me. I fall prey to a simple malady known as "Take a closer look fever."

It may start out simple enough. I merely nudge my wife and ask if she saw that tackle. Next comes a wince on a pass missed by mere inches. Then comes a smile at a perfect pitch-out. As the game progresses I get more and more involved. Soon I am trying to outguess the coaches. Then read the defense. By the final moments of the game I am a screaming madman as I stumble up and down the sidelines with my camera dangling around my neck, babbling to anyone that will listen to my ravings.

It is not a pretty sight as my doting wife leads me to the car. I sit there totally drained and continue to rattle on about this play or that.

Usually a high school game is good for at least three replays. I tell the same story over and over about how the game went and end up finishing every replay with a casual laugh at the outcome. This is to give the impression that I was amused rather than frantic when the contest ended.

This season will be different though. I am now in a new town watching new teams. For at least the first few games I will be virtually normal. There will be no blood-curdling screams until at least the third game. By that time, hopefully, I will have found a cure for football fever. But in the meantime, I wonder if my wife would like to try macrame on the weekends.

USM plans special days

HATTIESBURG-The 1977 football season at the University of Southern Mississippi will be highlighted by three special days for home games.

The first home game of the season will be on Sept. 10 when the Golden Eagles host the Seminoles of Florida State. The special event for this game will be Legislative Weekend. Members of the Mississippi Legislature will be invited to the campus for a weekend of activities, information and the first home game. Activities will begin on Friday, Sept. 9 and end Sunday morning, Sept. 11.

Traditional homecoming festivities will be celebrated Oct. 8 when the Golden Eagles meet the Mean Green of North Texas State. A full slate of activities have been planned around this mid-season game to bring former students to the campus.

Wreck Tech weekend has been scheduled for the Louisiana Tech game on Nov. 12. This event is under the sponsorship of USM Admissions. Emphasis for the day will be on prospective students invited to the campus for a day of information, tours and events to fully acquaint them with USM. The day will be climaxed by free admission to the ballgame for prospective students participating in the days activities.

Safe fishing tips

Fishing is good therapy—both physical and emotional.

The American Medical Association points out that the millions of Americans who head for the lakes and streams across the nation each fishing season don't need a doctor to tell them that fishing is a good sport. They likely have seen their doctor sitting in the next boat with a line in the water.

Fishing can be elaborate, complete with a trip to the seashore and renting deep-sea boats and equipment. Or it can be the cane pole and worms affair on the banks of a neighborhood creek. Either way it gets us out in the fresh air and sunshine, gets our minds off the cares of the day.

Unless you are the vigorous type who wades through racing rapids or rows hard for miles, fishing is only mild exercise, but still is good for the body and spirit. Fishing also is a relatively safe sport. But it does have some built-in hazards. Most of them can be avoided.

The most common fishing accident is catching a barbed hook in the flesh, usually a finger or hand, but sometimes a leg or other part of the body. Lures and hooks left unprotected on a dock or on the bottom of a boat cause many of these accidents.

The wise fisherman guards against hook accidents by shielding the hook. One simple way is to stick a small cork over the barb. Lures should be stored in the tackle box until needed, and returned promptly to the box when removed from the leader. The band of your favorite fishing hat is, of course, a reasonably safe place to keep lures you intend to use later in the day.

Fly or bait casters are responsible for many hook accidents to their fellow fishermen. Train yourself to look before each cast to make certain no one is in the way. This will also save lures from snagging on trees and bushes as you cast.

In removing a hook from the fish, hold the fish firmly under the gills, so that its head can't flop or wiggle. A freshly caught fish is slippery and hard to hold. Get a firm grip before dislodging the hook.

If, despite precautions, a hook becomes imbedded in your hand or finger, don't try to pull it out. Your physician will snip off the shank and push it through. Thus avoiding further damage to torn flesh. The doctor will also, if necessary, administer antibiotics and tetanus toxoid. Hook wounds often lead to infection unless properly treated.

ANNUAL REGATTA UNDERWAY- The annual Commodore Bernard L. Knost All Ladies Championship Regatta is underway at the Pass Christian Yacht Club. This event was started in 1937 by Commodore Knost and is dedicated to skipperette racing on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Yacht Clubs participating are New Orleans, Southern, Bay-Waveland, Gulfport, Jackson, Biloxi, Pensacola, St. Andrews Bay and Pass Christian. Team captain, Wilma Erichsen, (center), team captain, Shelly McNair, left, and Edie Varborough, right, will be skipperettes for Pass Christian Yacht Club. Marion Knost, brother of the late Commodore Knost, is host for the regatta.

Sports Quiz

1. What man kicked the longest field goal in NFL history?
2. Who has the highest lifetime yards-per-carry average in the NFL?
3. What former NFL quarterback has the most career touchdown passes?
4. What NFL player has the highest lifetime point total?
5. What former NFL star holds the record for the most touchdowns in a single season?

ANSWERS:

1. The longest field goal in professional football was kicked by a man with only half a foot. Tom Dempsey, formerly of the New Orleans Saints, booted a 63 yarder on the final play of the game to beat the Detroit Lions 19-17 on Nov. 8, 1970.
2. In 1959 career carries, Jim Brown gained 12,312 yards for a yards-per-carry average of 5.22 to top the NFL.
3. Johnny Unitas topped the NFL in career touchdown passes until last year with a total of 290 in 17 years in the pros. Fran Tarkenton holds the record for active players.
4. The grand old man of football, George Blanda, scored 162 points in his many years as a pro player.
5. In his rookie year in 1965, Gale Sayers, scored 22 touchdowns. He ran for 14, caught 14, passed for six and returned a punt and a kickoff for two more.

Under the provisions of the policy, the superintendent will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to the Superintendent for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Trip to health department signals start of school for Lakeshore youngsters

The Sea Coast Echo went along with two youngsters on a recent trip to the Hancock County Health Department as they prepared for entrance to school by receiving their immunization protection.

Bessie Sharpe, age six, and brother, Mack, who will be four in November, visited the health department with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharpe of Lakeshore. Bessie will enter Lakeshore as a first grader and Mack will be entering the Headstart program.

Nurse Janelle McLean administered the immunization for the two youngsters.
